

Patrick Miller

Patrick has worked as an actor on skills programmes with public and private sector organisations and also NGOs. He enjoys being able to use his experience and skills sensitively, allowing for a safe environment in which to instantly create scenarios and react to delegates needs in the moment.

A professional actor for more than thirty years, Patrick has also directed, and written and performed his own work. Also many years directing and facilitating drama with young people, including the last ten years for the Hackney Empire Artist Development Program. He has worked for RSC and in the west end and TV work includes six series playing Akili Johnson in Byker Grove.

Patrick Trained at the Bristol Old Vic Theatre.
