

Steve Palmer

Steve's passionate and highly interactive style ensures that individuals are motivated to learn, whilst focussing on pragmatic solutions.

For over 30 years, Steve has specialised in the development of Interpersonal Skills, working as a successful coach, trainer and facilitator across a broad range of industries, both here in the UK and overseas.

Now in semi-retirement, Steve coaches and advises in another of his passions - technology - and works with managers, helping them to get the most from social media (Facebook, Twitter and LinkedIn) as well as the major communication packages such as Word, and PowerPoint. He also has a flair for website design (he designed Juno's!)